Why we do what we do – A Statement by Maria

"I believe in a world where people wholly connect with each other, feeling liberated to express joy, honesty, passion, courage and love in their working live; I believe that to create a world like this we all need to read and understand other peoples feelings and continually adapt and modify our own behaviour. When we fully connect we experience the synergy of Teamwork; at home, in business, in life."

"Emotional engagement at work is my Passion. My scientifically proven theories on relationship psychology are published in my book changing vampires into angels. I developed an award winning system of analysis and coaching called The Commitment and Resilience Index (Cari™) for measuring emotional engagement and wellbeing at work."

"I see my approach as both analytical, intuitive and positively challenging whilst at all times putting the client in the driving seat. I like to inspire new thinking, new behaviours and exceptional levels of self confidence in my clients"
